“Maurice-André Vigneault, VE3VIG, is a dynamic, dependable person of great generosity who is very committed to his community. Volunteering has always been at the centre of his life.” (see page 14)

“Doug’s long career of service to Amateur Radio began with his licensing as VE3DWG in 1954. Doug was a tireless promoter of Amateur Radio in Canada for almost 66 years at the local, provincial and national level.” (see page 14)

“Winters high in the mountains of Vancouver Island are among the harshest anywhere, so maintaining mountain top repeater sites can be a challenge for local Amateur Radio clubs. (see page 18)

Call for Articles: Homebrew, Technical and Otherwise...

The next special issue of TCA magazine will once again highlight homebrew projects. This is no accident!

With the global pandemic restricting many of our usual activities, many Amateur Radio operators are drawn to the workbench or computer to put together ideas and projects that have been on the backburner for some time. Are you in that position?

Do you have any projects that you would like to share with TCA readers? If so, this may be your opportunity. Please see page 64 for details. We are also looking for other articles: technical and otherwise! Please send them in now to the TCA Editor at tcamag@yahoo.ca.
